Climbing up !!

The mountain landscape contains not only landform changes but also various kinds of landscapes. Climbers can gain various experiences through climbing. The purpose of the design concept is to allow visitors to experience not only visual but also physical exercises by going along the white lines.

Sand, pine cones, wood chips and gravel are used on the surface of the ground and give various feelings directly to the soles of the feet.

The grass has various heights and divides the garden into different zones. And bring a light movement to this place.
