

JUMP AROUND!

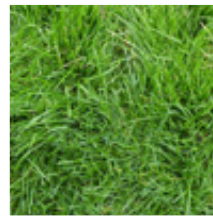

Layout Plan, Scale 1/100

JUMP AROUND re-envisions the garden as a shape-shifting contemporary space capable of inviting play, collaboration, and interactivity. It is a response and homage to the land art movement, reimagining the genre-defining earthwork for a new decade. JUMP AROUND imagines landscape topography which springs alive, activated by movement, interaction, and play.

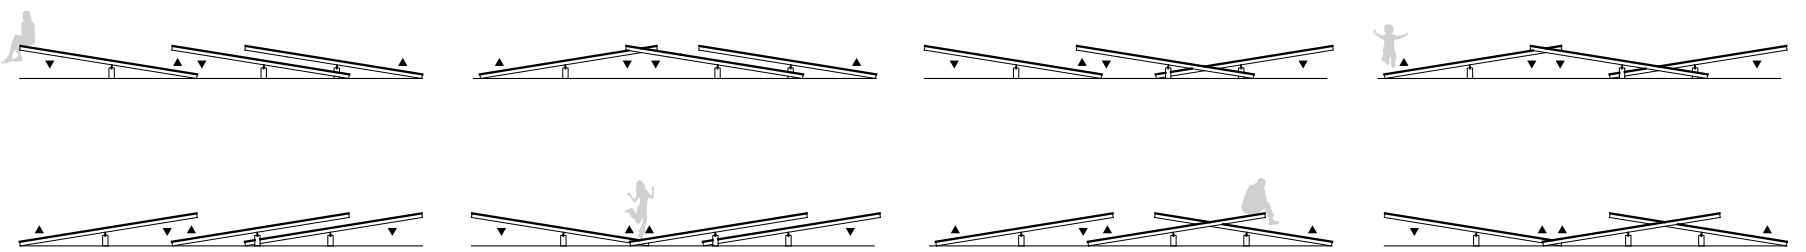

A streamlined palette of materials is used to construct three diamond-shaped see-saw platforms for sitting, standing, and exploring. The eight distinct spatial scenarios constructed by the folding of the see-saws, coupled with transient shadows cast by the passing sun, ensure that no two visitor experiences are identical. A reflective mylar surface beneath each see-saw captures the pink coloring of its underside, generating pockets of reflective complimentary color which are activated as see-saws bob up and down.

Visitors can sit or stand atop the see-saws—becoming part of a garden in motion—or observe how they inject the garden site with dynamic movement and color. JUMP AROUND recasts the observer as active participant rather than passive observer, inviting visitors to engage with one another to create new experiences.
